Now Stocking Laser Quality Plate Products

Parker Steel now stocks High Strength Steel Plate that is thermo-mechanically rolled for cold forming according to EN10149-2

This material is ideal for state of the art laser cutting applications requiring higher speeds, improved edges, and less distortion in the part. It is produced to close tolerances on chemistry and mechanical properties with good surface quality, exceptional flatness and dimensional control, and low residual stress.

Available from stock in grade S355 MC. Other grades available upon
